The Honorable David Bernhardt
Secretary
U.S. Department of the Interior
1849 C Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20240

Dear Secretary Bernhardt,

In consideration of the recent guidelines released by the White House on April 16, 2020, for Opening Up America Again, we write to request documentation and information regarding how the Department of the Interior (DOI) plans to reopen national parks and other public lands.

Given the gravity of the rapidly evolving public health crisis, we are concerned that reopening parks and other public lands in the absence of clear safeguards and guidance will jeopardize the health and safety of visitors, employees, and those who live closest to our public lands. There have already been numerous reports of overcrowding and high visitation at national parks and public land sites during the pandemic that prevented visitors and employees from maintaining the social distancing called for by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and at least ten National Park Service (NPS) employees have tested positive for the virus.

workforce, but uniquely enhances COVID-19 risks in the neighboring communities and visitors and increases the risks of negative outcomes for all.”⁵

Unfortunately, in spite of these concerns and the rising number of confirmed cases of coronavirus in the U.S., the administration has continued to encourage public lands visits without implementing clear protocols to ensure the health and safety of visitors and employees. In fact, earlier this week, President Trump announced that the administration “will begin to reopen our national parks and public lands for the American people to enjoy.”⁶ While we recognize the benefits our public lands provide during this difficult time, waiving entrance fees at parks to make it “a little easier for the American public to enjoy the outdoors” and ignoring requests from NPS employees and local officials for closure threaten to undermine efforts to combat this crisis.⁷ ⁸ ⁹

In the face of this unprecedented crisis, it is crucial that any decisions to reopen national parks and other public land sites prioritize the health and safety of visitors, employees, and local communities and that they are guided by directives from public health experts and local officials.

To assist the Committee with its oversight activities and to address outstanding questions regarding the Department of the Interior’s plans to reopen national parks and public land sites consistent with the guidelines for Opening Up America Again, please provide the following documents and information as soon as possible, but no later than May 8, 2020:

- Documentation detailing how DOI will determine when it is appropriate to reopen, or to keep open, parks and other public land sites.

- A breakdown of the specific guidance and/or criteria DOI will provide to reopen closed facilities, units, and sites.

• A timeline specifying when DOI plans to begin reopening parks and other public land sites that are currently closed.

• Documentation outlining DOI’s plans to consult with stakeholders – including DOI employees, scientists, and state, tribal, and local officials – to ensure that any decisions to reopen, or to keep open, parks and other public land sites reflect local conditions and prioritize public health.

• Documentation specifying the protocols and processes DOI will implement to ensure visitor safety when reopening, or deciding to keep open, parks and other public land sites.

• Documentation specifying the protocols and processes DOI will implement to ensure employee safety when reopening, or deciding to keep open, parks and other public land sites.

• Any documentation and/or information related to how DOI plans to house NPS employees, seasonal staff, trail crews, and fire crews, consistent with federal and state guidelines.

If you have any questions regarding this request, please contact the National Parks, Forests, and Public Lands Subcommittee staff at (202) 225-6065. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Debra Haaland
